- 6.6.1.3 The senior leadership team and all staff ensure that every precaution is taken to ensure that we minimise the risk of harm to our students. Recognizing the importance of being vigilant at all times with regard to the safety of our children, we take any allegation seriously and deal with them in an appropriate manner with the children's best interest in mind.

- Everyone associated with the organization is aware of and responds appropriately to issues of child abuse and the sexual exploitation of children.
- We create a child-safe environment in all of our activities by always assessing and reducing potential risks to children.
- We are driven by the duty of care that we have to our students.

6.6.4 Roles and Responsibilities

6.6.4.2 In order to fulfil this responsibility effectively, all staff should ensure that their approach is child-centred, considering at all times what is in the best interests of the child.

6.6.5 Confidentiality

6.6.5.1 Confidentiality is an issue which needs to be fully understood and complied with by all those working with children, particularly in the context of child protection. The purpose of confidentiality in this respect is to benefit the child.

6.6.5.2 Staff are informed of relevant information in respect of individual cases regarding child protection on a need-to-know basis only. Any information shared with a member of staff in this way is treated confidentially.

6.6.5.3 Staff should be aware that:

- Timely information sharing is essential to effective safeguarding
- Information must only be shared on a need-to-know basis, but they do not need consent to share information if a child is suffering, or at risk of, serious harm

6.1.5.4 Staff should never promise a child that they will not tell anyone about an allegation, as this may not be in the child's best interests.

6.6.6 Indicators and Types of Abuse and Neglect

- 6.6.6.0 All school staff should be aware of the indicators of abuse and neglect so that they can identify children who may be in need of help or protection. At the same time, they should take heed that abuse, neglect and safeguarding issues are rarely standalone events that can be covered by one definition or label. In most cases, multiple issues will overlap with one another.
- 6.6.6.1 Abuse is any form of maltreatment of a child. Somebody may abuse or neglect a child by inflicting harm or by failing to act to prevent harm. Children may be abused in a family or in an institutional or community setting by those known to them or, more rarely, by others. Abuse can take place online and technology may be used to facilitate offline abuse.
- 6.6.6.2 Physical abuse is a form of abuse which may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or caregiver fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces, illness in a child.
- 6.6.6.3 Emotional abuse is defined as the persistent emotional maltreatment of a child such as to cause severe and adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to a child that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate. It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. It may include interactions that are beyond a child's developmental capability as well as overprotection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child from participating in normal social interaction. It may involve seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another. It may involve serious bullying (including cyberbullying), causing children to be frequently frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, although it may occur alone.
- 6.6.6.4 Sexual abuse involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing and touching outside of clothing. They may also include non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse. Sexual abuse can take place online, and technology can be used to facilitate offline abuse. It must be noted that acts of sexual abuse, may be perpetrated by adult males and females as well as other children.

6.6.6.5 Peer-on-Peer abuse

All staff should be aware that safeguarding issues can manifest themselves via peer-on-peer abuse.

This is most likely to include, but may not be limited to:

- Bullying (including cyberbullying);
- Physical abuse such as hitting, kicking, shaking, biting, hair pulling, or otherwise causing physical harm
- Sexual violence and sexual harassment
- Sexting (also known as youth-produced sexual imagery)
- Initiation/hazing type violence and rituals

6.6.6.5.1 Allegations of peer-on-peer abuse will be recorded, investigated and dealt with in accordance with HFS policy as set forth in the school handbooks. The initial response to a report of peer-on-peer abuse from a child is important, both for the victim and the alleged perpetrator. HFS staff must be aware of the importance of making clear that peer-on-peer abuse is not acceptable, will never be tolerated, and will be taken seriously.

6.6.6.6 Neglect is the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy, for example, as a result of maternal substance abuse. Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or caregiver failing to: provide adequate food, clothing and shelter (including exclusion from home or abandonment); protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger; ensure adequate supervision (including the use of inadequate care-givers); or ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.

6.6.6.7 Child sexual exploitation is a form of child abuse. It occurs when an individual or group takes advantage of an imbalance of power to coerce, manipulate or deceive a child or young person under the age of 18 into sexual activity (a) in exchange for something the victim needs or wants, and/or (b) for the financial advantage or increased status of the perpetrator or facilitator. The victim may have been sexually exploited even if the sexual activity appears consensual. Child sexual exploitation does not always involve physical contact: it can also occur through the use of technology.

Like all forms of child sex abuse, child sexual exploitation:

- can affect any child or young person (male or female) under the age of 18 years, including 16 and 17-year-olds who can legally consent to have sex;
- can still be abuse even if the sexual activity appears consensual;
- can include both contact (penetrative and non-penetrative acts) and non-contact sexual activity;
- can take place in person or via technology, or a combination of both;
- can involve force and/or enticement-based methods of compliance and may, or may not, be accompanied by violence or threats of violence;
- may occur without the child or young person's immediate knowledge (e.g. through others copying videos or images they have created and posted on social media);
- can be perpetrated by individuals or groups, males or females, and children or adults. The abuse can be a one-off occurrence or a series of incidents over time, and range from opportunistic to complex organised abuse; and
- is typified by some form of power imbalance in favour of those perpetrating the abuse. Whilst age may be the most obvious, this power imbalance can also be due to a range of other factors including gender, sexual identity, cognitive ability, physical strength, status, and access to economic or other resources

Some of the following signs may be indicators of child sexual exploitation:

- children who appear with unexplained gifts or new possessions;
- children who associate with other young people involved in exploitation;
- children who have older boyfriends or girlfriends;
- children who suffer from sexually transmitted infections or become pregnant;
- children who suffer from changes in emotional well-being;
- children who misuse drugs and alcohol;
- children who go missing for periods of time or regularly come home late; and
- children who regularly miss school or education or do not take part in education.

6.6.6.7 Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC) refers to a range of crimes and activities involving the sexual abuse or exploitation of a child for the financial benefit of any person or in exchange for anything of value (including monetary and non-monetary benefits) given or received by any person.

Examples of crimes and acts that constitute CSEC:

- child sex trafficking/the prostitution of children;
- child sex tourism involving commercial sexual activity;
- commercial production of child pornography;
- online transmission of live video of a child engaged in sexual activity in exchange for anything of value.

CSEC also includes situations where a child, whether or not at the direction of any other person, engages in sexual activity in exchange for anything of value, which includes non-monetary things such as food, shelter, drugs, or protection from any person. Depending on the specific circumstances, CSEC may also occur in the context of internet-based marriage brokering, early marriage, and children performing in sexual venues.
